INPLANT OFFICES

One and Two story offices in your production facility ...reduce construction costs and save time!

Mezzanine systems can be treated as depreciable personal property or real property. The primary difference is that personal property is movable and typically functions as an accessory to distribution, process or manufacturing equipment. In contrast, real property is not likely to be moved and is permanently affixed to the building; becoming an additional function to the building. Call us at 716-876-9000 to discuss your options.
